Winter Issue 2018

President's Address

Welcome to the winter edition of listening Post.

This is indeed an exciting edition so much news and reports from all states.

We have of course coming up very soon our Malaya & Borneo Veterans Day and preparations are under way in all states to ensure the services are well attended.

This is a very important day so please make the effort to attend, participate and take the opportunity to meet up with fellow veterans.

The project to have a memorial at the AWM is still on track, it takes time and money so if you can assist in any way let our Man in Canberra Ian Davenport know, all are welcome to contribute to ensure this memorial is built sooner than later.

Merchandise available to order online www.nmbvaa.org.au

Support your association with the purchase of Bumper Stickers, badges, caps, shirts and other items. Detail online on our website.

During recent months aside from the Anzac Day Services, which are featured in this edition there have been several events taken place, all of which you will read about.

In South Australia a service was held to mark the 70th anniversary since the commencement of the Malayan Emergency.

This service was well attended by veterans and several dignities.

In Victoria the annual service at Thomas Carr College was held in May, the college has a memorial to the Malayan Emergency & Indonesian Confrontation.

This memorial is situated near the college chapel where the service is held.

Thomas Carr does so much to assist our association and for that we are very grateful

The annual MCG parade on Anzac Day was attended by two of our veterans, photos and a letter of appreciation from one of the attendees.

In the WA Section is a wonderful story of a veteran who served at the highest level of service, nothing more elite than an SAS soldier.

I was honored to be invited to attend and speak on behalf of the association at a Gala Night organized by the Sabah Sarawak Borneo Natives Organization.

This was wonderful night where I had the opportunity to meet great people, learn so much and hear them speak with such passion of their homeland.

There are some photos in this edition; I do have a full photo collection on a USB if anyone would like to see that, just let me know.

I must give a special mention of a contribution in the NSW/ACT section of a wonderful poem sent to me by Alan Sheather, to me it says it all about the feelings only the loss of a veterans can evoke in those left behind.

By the way you are allowed to have some tissues handy when reading the poem.

Recruiting of new members continues in all states and this makes the future of the association much more secure.

To you all enough from me, keep up the good work you do in your state.

Stay strong and help your mates.

A PEOM FOR ANZAC Day DADDY'S POEM

Her hair was up in a pony tail, her favourite dress tied with a bow. Today was Daddy's Day at school, and she couldn't wait to go.

*But her Mummy tried to tell her,
that she probably should stay home. Why the kids might not understand, if she went to school alone.*

But still her Mother worried, for her to face this day alone. And that was why once again, she tried to keep her daughter home.

*But the little girl went to school, Eager to tell them all.
About a Dad she never sees, A Dad who never calls.*

*There were Daddies along the back wall, for everyone to meet.
Children squirming impatiently,
Anxious in their seats.*

One by one the teacher called a student from the class. To introduce their daddy, As seconds slowly passed.

At last the teacher caller her name, every child turned to stare. Each of them were searching, for a man who wasn't there.

*"Where's her daddy at"? She heard a boy call out. "She probably doesn't have one"
Another one called out.*

*And from somewhere near the back, she heard a daddy say.
"Looks like another dead beat dad, too busy to waste his day."*

The words did not offend her, as she smiled up at her Mum. And looked back at the teacher, who told her to go on.

And with hands behind her back, slowly she began to speak. And out from the mouth of a child, Came some words that were unique.

*"My Daddy couldn't be here, because he lives so far away. But I know he wishes he could be,
since this is such a special day."*

NEW SOUTH WALES / A.C.T BRANCH

"And though you cannot meet him, I wanted you to know. All about my daddy, and how much he loves me so."

*"He loved to tell me stories, He taught me to ride a bike. He surprised me with pink roses,
and taught me to fly a kite."*

"We used to share fudge sundaes, and ice-cream in a cone. And though you cannot see him, I'm not standing here alone."

"Cause my daddy's always with me, Even though we are apart. I know because he told me, He'll forever be in my heart."

With that, her little hand reached up, and lay across her chest. Feeling her own heartbeat, beneath her favorite dress.

And from somewhere in the crowd of dads, her mother stood in tears. Proudly watching her daughter, who was wise beyond her years.

For she stood up for love, of a man not in her life. Doing what was best for her, doing what was right.

And when she dropped her hand back down, staring into the crowd. She finished with a voice so soft, but it's message clear and loud.

*"I love my daddy very much, He's my shining star. And if he could he'd be here, but heavens
just too far."*

*"You see he was a soldier, and he died this past year, when a roadside bomb hit his convoy.
And taught brave men to fear."*

"But sometimes when I close my eyes, it's like he never went away." And then she closed her eyes, and saw him there that day.

*And to her mother's amazement,
she witnessed with surprise. A room full of daddy's and children, all starting to close their eyes.*

*Who knows what they saw before them, who knows what they felt inside? Perhaps for merely a second, they saw him
at her side.*

*"I know you're with me daddy",
to the silence she called out.
And what happened next made believers, of those once filled with doubt.*

Not one in that room could explain it, for each of their eyes had been closed. But there on the desk beside her, was a fragrant long-stemmed pink rose.

And a child was blessed, if only for a moment, by the love of a shining star. And given the gift of believing that heaven is never too far.

NOTICE: Staff and volunteers at the Australian War Memorial are currently researching, digitising and indexing records to create a searchable roll representing Malayan Emergency, Malay Peninsula and Indonesian Confrontation.

The Roll will be due for release online in June 2019.

70th anniversary of the start of the Malayan Emergency, 1948-2018 MBV Day Ceremony

In 2018, we commemorated the 103rd anniversary of the Gallipoli landings in 1915, and the 100th anniversary of Armistice Day when - on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month - the guns fell silent on the Western Front. This Great War had seen the mobilisation of over 70 million people, with as many as 13 million dead and perhaps one-third of them with no known grave.

In 2018, we also commemorated 70th anniversary of the start of the undeclared war known as the 'Malayan Emergency'. This was a guerrilla war fought in the Federation of Malaya which lasted from 1948 until 1960 and cost the lives of 39 Australians.

The sacrifice of our 39 Australians, among the 1,800 Malayan and Commonwealth troops who lost their lives in this 12 year conflict, was not in vain, serving to uphold the sovereignty of Malaya allowing the successful attainment of independence on 31 August 1957, and the eventual creation of Malaysia on 16 September 1963.

The Catafalque Party, the Honour Guard and the Guides were provided by Cadets of several Squadrons from No. 6 Wing Australian Air Force Cadets based in Adelaide.

The Guest of Honour was the Branch Patron and Governor of South Australia, the Honourable Hieu Van Le AC. There were approximately 90 Branch members, family and friends and other VIPs included representatives from Dept of Veterans' Affairs, South Australian Government, RSL SA, War Widows Guild, the RAR Association, the RAAF Association, TPI, and Veterans' Voices Radio.

Gympie tales of war, brotherhood and unmarked graves.

Following article published in the Gympie Times by Tom Daunt, 21st Nov 2017.

THE Sandy Beret of Australia's Special Air Service Regiment is the unmistakable material symbol of our elite fighting force.

It is rare to see them, and the soldiers who are qualified to wear them in public.

The work of the SAS is often shrouded in secrecy.

So too was the life, and death of former regiment member and Gympie man Norman McCullough, who's head stone was unveiled in a special service at Gympie cemetery on Saturday.

Corporal McCullough served in Malaya, Thailand and Vietnam before being discharged from the Special Air Service squadron in 1976.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA BRANCH

ELITE: Zoltan Simon served with Corporal Norman McCullough in Vietnam as part of an SAS troop.

He died in Western Australia in 1983 and his ashes were brought to Gympie and interred with his mother, Ada Meiers in an unmarked grave.

Zoltan Simon (pictured) served with Corporal McCullough in the SAS. "I actually remember on one contact drill, dropping a 40mm high explosive shell a little bit close (to Norm).

"He ended up with a little bit of shrapnel in his leg. It was a shared moment," Mr Simon said.

It took a special kind of soldier to be considered for the SAS. Mr Simon said Corporal McCullough was made of the right stuff.

"He was very dependable, a total professional," Mr Simon said.

"You knew you could rely on him in a hard moment. Today (Saturday) is special for me particularly because I hadn't seen Norm since the last day we parted in Vietnam. That was in February 1971."

"I didn't even know he had died at such an early age because back in the 1980's we didn't have an association or the internet of course, so communication was a little bit lax compared to what it is today. When I heard this commemorative service was going to be prepared, I made the trip."

"It was lucky that John (fellow former SAS soldier John Ison) offered to say a few words because it would have been a trial for me," Mr Simon said.
